

Policy Statement on Slavery and Human Trafficking

Introduction

Tait Communications is committed to ensuring that its business does not directly or indirectly support slavery and trafficking activity whether in our supply chain or throughout our business. Further we are committed to building awareness in our business and supply chains to address the challenges of modern slavery and human trafficking. This statement outlines our policies and business practices that are in place as well as some initiatives currently underway to ensure that we are continually striving to improve transparency with customers, partners, suppliers, employees, and shareholders.

Our Structure and Business

The Tait Group's parent company Tait International Limited is based in Christchurch, New Zealand which is the headquarters of our global manufacturing, services, and product distribution activities. Tait Communications provides critical communications equipment, infrastructure, and associated services.

The vast majority of Tait's critical communications equipment is manufactured at our Christchurch factory. Products and Services are supplied across the globe with entities located in New Zealand, Brazil, United States of America, United Kingdom, Austria, France, Australia, Singapore and Dubai and through authorised distributors and resellers on a global basis.

Tait has approximately 600 employees worldwide.

Tait's Commitments and Policies related to Slavery and Human Trafficking

Tait ensures compliance with this policy by promoting a culture of ethical business conduct, integrity, and transparency. Our Business Conduct and Code of Ethics policy (Code of Conduct) requires all employees, officers and directors, to conduct business activities (whether in the supply chain or elsewhere in the business) in accordance with all applicable rules and regulations and at all times with integrity and in a transparent manner. The Code of Conduct states that decisions must be ethical as well as legal and they should reflect the Tait Values. Those values are listed on our website: <https://www.taitradio.com/about-us/our-values>

Our Code of Conduct requires that accurate business records and information in accordance with applicable laws and Tait's record management policies are maintained. It further promotes the importance of 'speaking up' under our whistleblowing policies without retaliation.

Human Resources Policies

Tait's Corporate Social Responsibility policy states that Tait will never use forced labour or child labour and we seek the same commitment from all of our suppliers, subcontractors, clients and partners of the same. Tait is committed to compliance with all laws and regulations and maintains robust procedures to ensure that all employees receive at least the minimum wage and holiday entitlements.

Tait's recruitment policies set out the minimum standard for each region in which we engage staff. All opportunities must be approved through our internal processes and follow strict selection and a minimum process standard to be performed. All employees who join us and consultants that we provide are subject to checks to ensure they are genuine applicants operating as free agents with the required level of propriety. We comply with all relevant labour, immigration, and minimum wage legislation

Whistleblowing

Tait encourages all its workers, customers, and other business partners to report any concerns related to its direct activities or supply chains. Such concerns are investigated by Ethics Officer and notified to a nominated board member. Clear escalation and conflict management procedures are in place.

Health & Safety

Tait's focus on Health and Safety ensures that our workers, whether within our manufacturing facility, office based or home based, or undertaking significant travel, are safe and any risk to their wellbeing is mitigated as far as is reasonably practicable. When onboarding new partners or vendors in our supply chain we undertake a due diligence process to understand our suppliers' policies and procedures in relation to health and safety and to ensure that we are only engaging with companies that meet or exceed Tait's Health and Safety requirements (as set out in our Health and Safety Management Plan).

Due Diligence process

Our due diligence process implements a risk rating system for the review and classification of suppliers and the products or services they supply to Tait. This process is intended to identify characteristics of suppliers which may, in the production of products or the provision of services, operate in breach of modern slavery prohibitions and Tait's commitment to reduce the risk of modern slavery in our operations and supply chain.

Responsible Department and Oversight

The Chief Legal Officer (who is also the Group's Ethics Officer) has overall Executive Team responsibility for oversight of this policy with support from the Global Human Resources Manager. Any issues or matters raised in relation to this policy are reviewed by the Legal Department and reported to the People Safety and Culture Committee.

Areas of Focus

Tait recognises that the global COVID-19 pandemic may increase the risks associated with modern slavery in our supply chain and our organisation. To address this, Tait will undertake a high-level review of our supply chain and we will update our due diligence process to seek targeted information on the measures taken by new suppliers due to COVID-19 and encourage open communications to understand any impacts on their businesses and workforce. In addition, Tait will focus on increased intra-group collaboration with local boards to review internal processes and seek improvements.

Second, Tait will focus on continued refresher training and development for managers and sales and partnering teams. Ensuring managers maintain the need to be alert for signs or behaviour that may indicate compromised personal situations and increasing awareness of our clients' expectations and needs in this space
